ABSTRACT

Johnson-O'Malley-funded projects in Wisconsin schools are described in this 1969-70 annual report on Indian education. Objectives of the Johnson-O'Malley Program are (1) to secure for Indian children the educational opportunities and learning environment necessary to fulfill their educational needs; (2) to promote understanding and improve relationships between the school, home, and community; (3) to cooperate in developing and supporting in-service training for teachers of Indian children; and (4) to provide financial assistance to local school districts for implementation of programs, services, and activities jointly planned and mutually approved by the school and Indian community. Current trends indicate an increased local awareness of the need for improved educational practices and programs in Indian education and a significant increase of direct involvement by the Indian community in school affairs. Statistics on financial support, enrollment, attendance, and scholarships for Indian students are presented in tabular form. In-service training programs held during the year are discussed. (JH)

NARRATIVE REPORT

Wisconsin has been involved with the Johnson-O'Malley Program since 1947. Eligible school districts have received reimbursement for educational services provided for Indian children residing on federal non-taxable land.

Johnson-O'Malley funds are allocated by the State Department of Public Instruction after determining the local cost per pupil for contracted services. Special programs to improve educational opportunities and services for Indian children, including home-school coordinators, teacher aides, and tutoring services, have also been supported by Johnson-O'Malley funds.

Current trends indicate an increased local awareness of, and financial support for, improved educational practices and programs in Indian education. A greater percentage of Johnson-O'Malley funds are being allocated for specific programs for Indian pupils. Local school officials, through encouragement of the Department of Public Instruction and involvement of Indian leaders, are recognizing the need for an increased expenditure of funds in this direction.

Other trends show a significant increase of direct involvement by the Indian community in school affairs. The Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council, Inc., Education Committee and the local Indian Education Committees are actively engaged at local and state levels of education.

Program Objectives

To secure for Indian children the educational opportunities and learning environment necessary to fulfill their educational needs.

To promote understanding and improve relationships between the school, home and community.

To cooperate in developing and supporting in-service training for teachers of Indian children.

To provide financial assistance to local school districts for implementation of programs, services and activities jointly planned and mutually approved by the school and Indian community.

The degree to which objectives are being accomplished can be evaluated in the report of "Special Programs in Indian Education" which are described in another section of this narrative.

Problem areas in Indian Education include a need for:

1. Improvement in the retention rate of Indian high school pupils.
2. Increased involvement of Indian parents in school affairs.
3. Expansion of programs and activities for Indian pupils and parents that tend to enhance their self-concept and their attitude regarding the value of educational achievement.
4. Curriculum review and revision with respect to Indian history and culture.

"SPECIAL PROGRAMS IN INDIAN EDUCATION"

ASHLAND

With Johnson-O'Malley support, two teacher aides of Indian ancestry were assisting classroom instruction at the kindergarten and first grade levels. The Home-School Coordinator continued providing counseling services, plus holding meetings, conferences and program planning sessions with the Indian community and the local Indian Education Committee.

Plans have also been completed to implement an accredited high school course in Indian History and Culture for 1970-71.

Title I funds were used to conduct a summer reading program on the Bad River Reservation for 15 students. The teacher and an aide went directly to the home and conducted the reading improvement program on a one-to-one basis.

During the summer, 1969, a program of English and History make-up was operated on the reservation for students in grades 9 - 12. There were approximately 15 students in each class who completed and received 1/2 credit for each subject.

During the 1970 summer, a second program was operated on the reservation involving 2 teachers and 32 students. Courses offered were English and Indian Culture. Each high school student received 1/2 credit for each course. Participating junior high students received remedial help and enrichment.

BAYFIELD

(Title I) Provided a developmental reading program for pupils in grades 2 - 6. High interest, low-level ability materials; audio-visual equipment; and field trips were used to stimulate interest in school and serve as additional reading development in the early grades. Of the 39 pupils in the program, 24 were of Indian descent.

BLACK RIVER FALLS

Under the Title III Program, provided transportation for Head Start pupils and for the Indian students participating in the summer Inter-Cultural Program conducted at Wisconsin State University - Eau Claire.

The Junior High School sponsors a co-curricular club which places emphasis on Indian culture and history.

The "Falls Advisory Council", organized in 1968, represents a cross section of the community and includes Indian adults. The Council cooperates with the school officials in promoting educational programs, school retention and counseling.

BOWLER

Local funds provide special transportation services to enable Indian students to participate in after-school activities.

Under a Title I, Special Assistance Project, 15 Indian and 20 non-Indian pupils participate in a reading improvement activity.

Title II funds are utilized to add library books reflecting Indian history.

Indian aides (2) are involved in the Title I project as well as in the primary grades.

CRANDON

Developing plans with Wisconsin State University - Stevens Point for a student tutoring program for 1970-71.

CUMBERLAND

Held a local in-service program on the education of Indian youth. The workshop was conducted by Indians and included sensitivity to Indian problems and cultural heritage.

An Indian club was organized and includes non-Indian members. Its activities are recreational, cultural and educational.

A university extension course entitled "Sensitivity to Minorities" was held at the Cumberland School during the spring of 1970. The district was instrumental in organizing the class and promoting discussions of the American Indians as a part of the course.

FREEDOM

Operated a Title I project "To Prevent Learning Disorders in Disadvantaged K-12 Students." Three of the 20 pupils involved were Indian. The program included speech therapy and guidance. Personnel included a psychologist, tutors and aides.

HAYWARD

Johnson-O'Malley funds provided the services of a Home-School Coordinator (1/2 time), guidance and counseling services, two Night Study Centers on the reservation, special tutoring services and transportation to and from the study centers. Approximately 70 pupils, grades 5 - 12, were involved in the study centers.

A summer vocational program was conducted on the reservation. Activities included metal spinning, etching, leathercraft, plastics and auto mechanics. Transportation was provided for the 37 students, grades 7 - 12, who participated.

The district also provides opportunities for staff participation in workshops and institutes for teachers of Indian children.

Title I Programs: Special help. "Communications Skills" for grades 1 - 8. This program included the children in the St. Francis Mission School and involved a total of 175 Indian pupils and 150 non-Indians.

In grades 9 - 12, a "Special Reading and Cultural Program" was conducted for 50 Indian and 25 non-Indian students.

Special guidance services offered for grades 1 - 6 (including St. Francis Mission School).

HAYWARD - Title I Programs cont'd.

Teacher aides were involved in education services for 100 Indian students and 175 non-Indian students.

Transportation for special school events was provided.

Title II funds for 1969-70 were used entirely for the purchase of library materials (books, films and records) for or about Indians and Indian culture.

Hayward participates in a summer Head Start Program which enrolled 10 Indian pupils. The district provides rooms, equipment, materials, kitchen and dining facilities, along with sharing transportation costs.

FLAMBEAU (Lac du Flambeau)

Johnson-O'Malley funds were utilized for the employment of a Home-School Coordinator during the second semester. School records indicate that 60 percent of the Indian students and families received direct services. All pupils received school lunch services at no charge. No charges were assessed for athletics or any other school activity, including gym uniforms. Band instruments were provided for the needy. No charges were made for Home Economics or Shop materials, and free transportation was provided for all athletic events and other school activities.

A Speech Therapy Program was conducted for 16 Indian and 9 non-Indian pupils.

Other programs for Indian pupils included cooperation with the U. S. Public Health Bureau to provide free dental and medical services at the school for eligible needy children.

The school also co-sponsored a Neighborhood Youth Corps Program directed by the Farmers Union and Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council.

Lac du Flambeau's faculty included 2 Indian teachers, 1 teacher aide, 1 clerical aide, and 6 parent educators.

Title I Programs:

Primary Preventative Reading Program -- 46 Indian and 7 non-Indian students.

Summer Tutorial Program-- 45 Indian and 7 non-Indian students.

Summer School for Eighth Grade Underachievers -- 21 Indian and 2 non-Indian students.

Summer Dental Assistance Program -- 92 Indians

Speech, Language, Auditory Discrimination Workshop -- 15 Indian and 6 non-Indian students.

Breakfast Program for Kindergarten during school year.

LAKELAND UNION HIGH SCHOOL

Provides the services of a full-time Home-School Coordinator without the benefit of special Johnson-O'Malley funding. The Coordinator functions as a counselor, advisor, social worker, and also performs in other areas which will benefit the Indian students.

Each year Johnson-O'Malley funds are used to sponsor an extended field trip for the Indian students in grades 11 and 12. The purpose of the trip is to provide them with opportunities to experience cultural improvement activities, tour manufacturing plants, visit colleges and vocational schools, and visit museums.

A Title I Program offered tutorial services to students that were experiencing problems within specific subject areas. Approximately 50 percent of the participating pupils were Indians.

PITTSVILLE

The Title I project consisted of two parts -- Speech Correction and Cultural Enrichment through Fine Arts. One-half of the Indian students enrolled participated in the program.

SEYMOUR

Has approximately 275 Indian pupils of which 80 are federally-connected.

Late transportation is provided for the youths who wish to remain after regular dismissal to use school facilities or participate in co-curricular activities. The program has been in operation six years. Johnson-O'Malley funds are used for this program.

Title I programs have centered around the Oneida Indians. A nurse has been working with the Indian students and helping to provide necessary health needs. An elementary guidance counselor devotes 60 percent of her time in working with the Indian students helping to identify and diagnose special problem areas. An enrichment program for high school students is provided by special counseling three half-days per week.

The most extensive Title I program is a summer school for the Oneida Indians. Emphasis has been placed on the multi-unit approach, in-service of teachers and an enrichment program. The summer staff included 8 teachers, 1 librarian, 1 art teacher, and a guidance counselor.

SEYMOUR cont'd.

Title II funds have been utilized to provide audio-visual material and books relating to Indians.

SIREN

Johnson-O'Malley funds were utilized to provide the services of a Home-School Coordinator for 25 federally-connected and 6 non-federally connected Indian pupils.

Title I provided a comprehensive summer school program including math, dramatics, music, industrial arts, reading, art, physical education, water safety, canoeing, boating and camping. This program involved 8 Indian children.

WABENO

Title I provided a summer program for children in grades 1 - 6. Eight Indian children enrolled for special help in reading and arithmetic. Field trips were also included to broaden their social experiences. Teacher aides have been employed to follow through on this program during the regular term.

WEBSTER

Has had partial Johnson-O'Malley support for a Home-School Coordinator. Concentration has been on improving the attendance, problems with school dropouts, Indian participation in school activities, and involvement in school affairs.

Indian students were provided with an evening study center and received tutoring assistance from a licensed classroom teacher.

The Home-School Coordinator and an intermediate grade teacher were both of Indian descent.

WEST DE PERE

Johnson-O'Malley funds were utilized to offer a high school credit course in Indian History and Culture. Classes were held both semesters and attended by both Indian and non-Indian students.

WEST DE PERE cont'd.

Two administrators received in-service training by attending the first National Indian Conference in St. Paul, Minnesota.

An assembly program was presented by the Oneida Indians.

In-service training activities included participation of the guidance counselors at several conferences on Indian education which were held at Wisconsin State University - Stevens Point.

For the convenience of the Indian pupils and parents, a driver education car was placed in the Indian community during the summer.

Title I funds were instrumental in contracting with St. Norbert's College to provide tutors for the High View School. Sixty-seven Indian pupils received tutoring assistance.

A summer school program directed at developing attitudes for children in grades 1 - 3 was also offered. Forty-five Indian pupils were invited to attend and 26 enrolled.

All students had available the services of guidance counselors, a social worker, a psychologist, and a speech therapist.

Two Indian teachers are on the faculty. One teaches third grade, the other is in girl's physical education.

WISCONSIN DELLS

Employed a Home-School Coordinator to establish effective lines of communication between Indian families and the school. Two tutors were employed full-time to work directly with the Indian elementary pupils during the regular school day. One Indian woman was engaged as a teacher's aide in the kindergarten.

In cooperation with the University of Wisconsin - Baraboo Campus, an evening tutoring program was established whereby a one-to-one teacher-pupil ratio was maintained.

"Reach and Teach," a Title I program, provided reading improvement services for 24 Indian pupils.

Graphic Art courses were established at the high school level. Indian pupils were given priority to enroll.

"IN-SERVICE TRAINING PROGRAMS FOR TEACHERS OF INDIAN CHILDREN"

A workshop for "Teachers of Indian Youth" was held for two weeks in July 1970 at Wisconsin State University - Superior. The majority of the members of the Planning Committee were Indian educators, parents, and members of Indian education committees. The director of the workshop, as well as all resource people, were of Indian ancestry.

The workshop was designed to emphasize three primary concerns:

1. History and culture of the Ojibway nation and the tribes of the Winnebago, Menominee, Stockbridge-Munsee, Oneida, and Potawatomi;
2. Curriculum development; and
3. Contemporary Indians.

The workshop was supported financially by the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the State Department of Public Instruction through the Johnson-O'Malley Program.

A three-day conference on Indian Education for school administrators was also conducted at Wisconsin State University - Superior. It is felt that if progress is to be made in Indian Education, it must be with the understanding and support of school administrators.

Objectives of the conference were:

1. To develop an understanding of the cultural forces that contribute to the disadvantage of Indian children and to develop strategies of human relationships for working with these cultural forces.
2. To develop an understanding of the special learning problems of Indian children and methods of developing programs to meet their special needs.
3. To develop means of establishing communications with the Indian community to further the cooperative education of the Indian children.
